The investment process you are about to make is part of a transcrypto transfer plan involving sometimes unregulated and unproven(audit) financial technology partners. This may carry a high risk of loss of your funds or related malicious behavior and character of the users on the network. When you make payments and transfers of value as a user of a blockchain network, you are doing so directly to another user. Therefore, Andersson Family Foundation does not take any responsibility for the handling or use of funds by unregistered, unverified users. There is no central office that can take care of your needs or inquiries before or after a transaction. Therefore, please inform yourself exactly what a Bitcoin transaction and a cryptocurrency transaction manifests in its essence and purpose. Fiat money transferred into the system should be considered a private investment gesture and has nothing to do with regulated or custodial asset management.

United Global Payment Systems Inc, the custodian and liquidity partner of transactions, is not a regulated financial or financial processing entity in the United States of America, the United Kingdom, Asia, Africa or the European Union. Therefore, all transactions on all networks that are accepted and verified only by United Global Payment Systems Inc. in conjunction with United Global Credit Inc.

should be treated as legal and complaintable. All other transactions without acceptance of partnership or remittance facilities in the networks will not be accepted by Andersson Family Foundation LLC, United Global Credit Inc or United Global Payment Systems Inc. These transactions will be declared disqualified.

Andersson Family Foundation LLC assumes no responsibility for managed funds or value structures made outside the acceptance and review of United Global Credit Inc.
